ANNIVERSARY OF HORROR

ANTHONY GRANT WAS VISITING HIS GRANDAD IN THE REMOTE VILLAGE OF GEE CROSS—

GRANDAD TOLD ANTHONY A HORRIFIC TALE—

500 YEARS AGO TODAY A WITCH WAS BURNED AT THE STAKE. SHE PUT A CURSE ON THE VILLAGE BEFORE SHE PERISHED.

IN 500 YEARS TIME AT TWELVE NOON A TERRIBLE FATE WILL BEFALL YOUR VILLAGE.

AS THE CHIMES FINISHED—

THERE, GRANDAD—TWELVE O'CLOCK AND NOTHING... HAD HAPPENED!

GEE CROSS SEEMED DESERTED—

EVERYTHING IS VERY QUIET. IT'S LIKE A GHOST TOWN. COME ON, GRANDAD, ANSWER THE DOOR!

ANTHONY, IT IS YOU! COME ON, BOY, QUICK! IT'S NEARLY TWELVE NOON.

WHAT'S ON, GRANDAD?

OH NO! TWELVE NOON!

GRANDAD! YOU'VE TURNED INTO A FROG!

YOU MUST GO TO THE CHURCH AND THROW A PAIR OF THE VICARS UNDERPANTS INTO THE WITCH'S TOMB! THAT WILL FREE US FROM THE CURSE!

AT THE CHURCH THE VICAR NOW A FROG, GLADLY HANDED ANTHONY A PAIR OF HIS UNDIES TO BREAK THE WICKED CURSE—

THERE'S THE TOMB, BOY, GO TO IT!

WISH ME LUCK!

SLOWLY, HE SLID BACK THE LID OF THE TOMB.

COR! WHAT A HORRID SMELL!

AS THE UNDERPANTS LANDED IN THE TOMB THE WITCH SCREAMED OUT LIGHTS FLASHED GREEN AND YELLOW, MISTS HISSED AND THEN THERE WAS SILENCE.

LATER, THE CURSE BROKEN EVERYTHING WAS BACK TO NORMAL.

YOUNG ANTHONY SPED THROUGH THE FROG-INFESTED VILLAGE—

SLIMEY! EVERYONE'S BEEN TURNED INTO FROGS. I'D BEST HURRY!

AS THE LID CAME OFF, A HIDEOUS HAG LEAPT TOWARDS HIM—

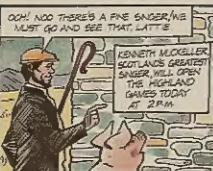

YES, BUT YOU COULD HAVE TOLD ME THE BREAKER OF THE CURSE WILL TURN INTO A HAMSTER!

OINK! presents – A Musical Western

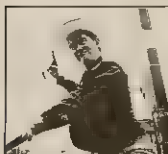

GHOST-PIGS IN THE SKY!

starring
Los Mekoneros!

Bad Jake was a gunfighter,
He was big and tough and mean,
He never bothered shaving
And his pants were never clean.

He fought and stole and gambled,
And treated people bad,
And no-one dared to stop him!
Oh, what an utter cad.

One day while Jake was riding,
An Indian called out name,
And said, 'You are a bad man, Jake,
It really is a shame!'

He said, 'You cheat and gamble, Jake,
And you don't give a fig
But beware that you aren't haunted,
By the devil's herd of pigs!'

Yippee-di-yay! Yippee-di-yoh!
The devil's herd of pigs!

But Jake just started and laughed
And knocked the Indian to the floor,
For Jake thought he was big and tough
And 'way above the law.

But that night he had a nightmare,
And in his sleep he cried –
He dreamed about the devil's herd
The ghost-pigs in the sky!

Yippee-di-yay! Yippee-di-yoh!
The ghost-pigs in the sky!

Next morning Jake forgot his dream
And rode into a town
He planned to rob the local bank
And burn the schoolhouse down –

But all at once a man in black
Appeared down the street,
And called on Jake to draw his gun!
There was nowhere to retreat.

This sight made Bad Jake hesitate,
His draw was far too slow,
In seconds he had met his fate,
Shot by his eerie foe!

They'd plotted in advance to make
Jake make his fatal error
And played upon his fear of ghosts
To end his reign of terror!

Now Jake he wasn't worried,
For he thought he was the best,
He'd never lost a gunfight,
He was the fastest in the West.

As Jake lay in the dusty street,
His life blood oozed away,
The haunted pigs have got me,
Were the last words he did say.

Because Jake was afraid of pigs,
His bacon had to fry –
He was beaten by a false ghost –
And the ghost-pigs in the sky.

But as his friends raised his head,
Jake gave a little shout,
For the man looked like a devil-pig
With an eerie piggy snout!

And so Jake breathed his dying breath,
His foe removed his snout,
And waved to a nearby building
And the Indian came out!

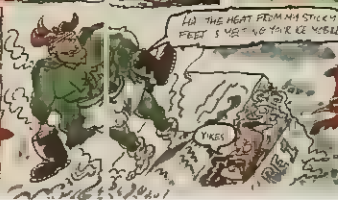

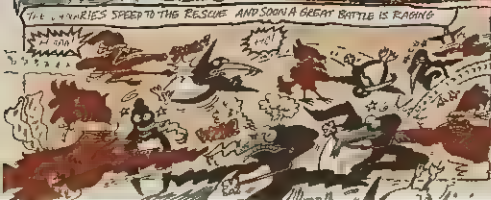

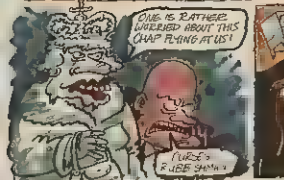

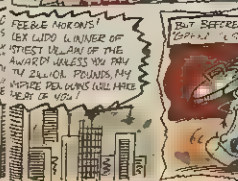

Yippee-di-yay! Yippee-di-yoh!
Ghost-pigs in the sky!

IT SHOULDN'T HAPPEN TO VERNON THE VET!

MONDAY - Acced as Judge at sheepdog trials found several dogs guilty of loitering when asked to smash. Succeeded them to 3 minutes in the dog house.

TUESDAY - Severely mauled by a dead tortoise owner threw it at me. He mistaken it for a crusty pie and advised him to keep it in the fridge! Bad error.

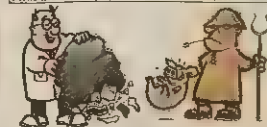

WEDNESDAY - Another bad day! - Left my contact lenses at home and tried to feed vicodin pills to the wrong end of a St. Bernard.

THURSDAY - Had to extract several teeth from a monkey as the zookeeper had been bitten by an alligator.

FRIDAY - A nasty fall happened at the school racecourse. Several laymen legs. Fortunately I had to put vicodin down at their wrists. Luckily, none of the horses were hurt.

SATURDAY - Presumed priors at Pub Shop Lady Sniffy. Becoming distressed when I insisted the 'Pride of the East' (sheep) was the same as the one who was here in a fur coat?

SUNDAY - Should have been my day off, but was called out in middle of night to deliver litter at Pig-Pan.

LUTELY - I had plenty of Yacker spots (for some reason people keep writing letters of complaint to me!).

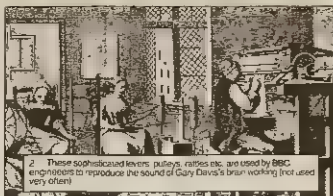

HOW RADIO SOUND EFFECTS ARE PRODUCED!

You obviously can't get a herd of elephants or a fleet of trucks into a radio studio (unless you smuggle them in inside Steve Wright's mouth). So how do radio engineers make the sounds of such things? Here, we reveal the secrets of this high-tech business.

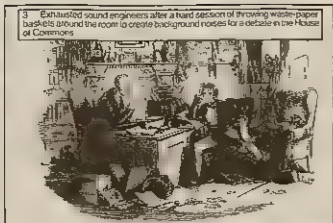

1. A rhinoceros has sound effects, too. In a recording of a rhinoceros, the engineer recorded a noise (using a microphone concealed in her shirt). Her grandad was amazed that she had a rhinoceros in her shirt, but the noise of protest made ideal rhinoceros noises!

4. Sound recordists looking for the over-enthusiastic engineers who swallowed a barrel of gunpowder while attempting to create realistic noises in the radio adaptation of 'The Billy Bang Show'.

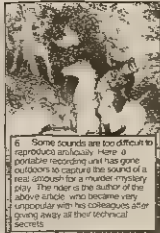

2. These sophisticated levers, pulleys, rattles etc. are used by BBC engineers to reproduce the sound of Gary Davis's brain working (not used very often).

3. Exhausted sound engineers after a hard session of throwing waste-paper baskets around the room to create background noises for a debate in the House of Commons.

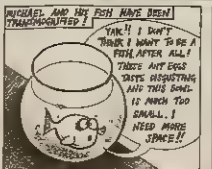

5. Stamping on a drawer full of laundry (to create the crowd noises for a live-in-the-london).

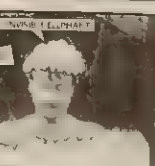

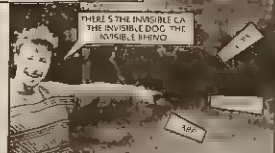

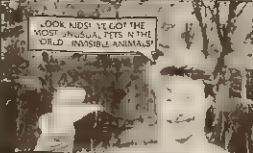

6. Some sounds are too difficult to reproduce artificially. Here a portable recording unit has gone outdoors to capture the sound of a real group for a murder-mystery play. The actor is the author of the above article, who became very unpopular with his colleagues after giving away all their technical secrets.

Being on school holidays in summer is great!

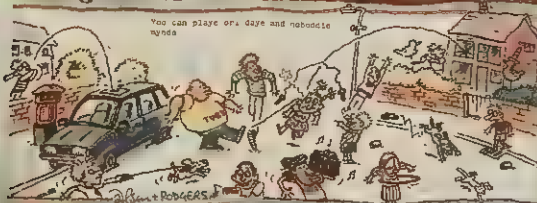

You can see anything you like not having to school things and past lunches

If it rains, you can invite all your friends into the house to play

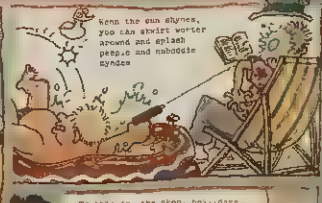

You can play on days and nobody minds

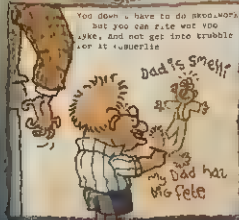

And you can get on, be sure that you haven't had time to play with for ages

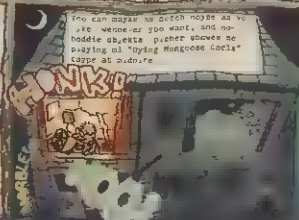

When the sun shines, you can start work around and splash people and nobody minds

You don't have to do school work, but you can sit and watch TV, and not get into trouble for it - superb!

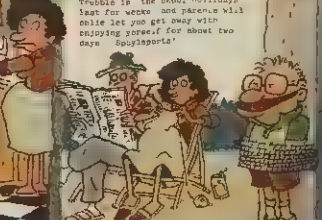

You can play in ditch holes as you like, because you want, and nobody objects, people think he's playing in 'ditch holes' and not at school

And you can increase your knowledge of things, insects, animals, droppings, etc.

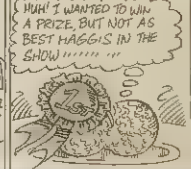

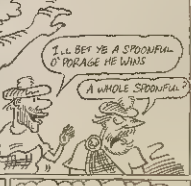

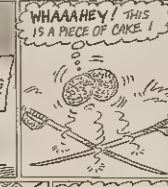

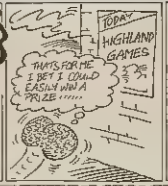

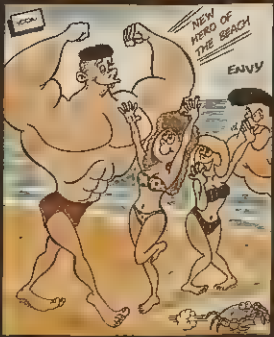

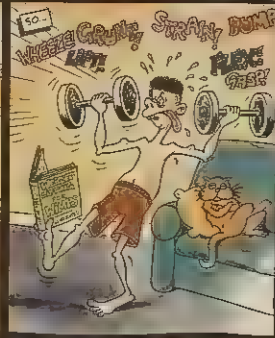

Trouble is the school holidays last for weeks and people will while let you get away with enjoying yourself for about two days - superb!

The Sad Princess and the Foolish Prince

by THE BROTHERS REALLY-GRIMM

Once upon a time there was a very sad princess. She wanted to be happy, like the princesses she had read about in story-books. One day she was walking in the forest, when she saw a sad-looking frog. 'Perhaps he is a prince, turned into a frog by a magic spell,' she thought. 'I shall kiss him and release him from the spell, and he will marry me and we'll live happily ever after.'

But when she kissed the frog, it turned into a giant, slithering Nargle-beast! 'Save me, save me!' cried the princess. A prince from a nearby kingdom was riding in the forest. Hearing the princess crying, he rode to her aid, and slew the beast with an arrow to the head. 'My hero!' thought the sad princess. 'Now that handsome prince will marry me, and I'll have a happy ending after all!' But as the Nargle-beast toppled to its doom, its tail landed on the sad princess, squeezing her flat.

It was a sad time for everyone, including the foolish young prince, who was imprisoned for making a tasteless remark at the funeral of the princess. He was silly enough to say: 'Well, at least she had a furry-tail ending!'
